Mevotech Supreme front lower control arms CMS401164 and CMS401165 are engineered with a solid bushing, with voids and recesses filled-in. This adds strength to the bushing component and reduces the potential of tearing and cracking. This improves durability, especially for an application which is often used as a working vehicle. Additionally, the entire arm is anti-corrosion coated and a new control arm to ball joint fastening nut is included for a complete install. See Figure 1.
