Due to road salt and other corrosion, the front lower control arm bushing bracket to frame bolts often become seized. When removing the control arm for replacement, these bolts may strip, break and or otherwise develop an out of specification condition and should not be reused.

Mevotech Supreme front lower control arms CMS40130/CMS40131 for the below listed applications include the bushing bracket to frame bolts, as part of the hardware package. This reduces installation time and provides an enhanced value repair option.
