MS30503 is designed with a significantly larger housing flange, both in diameter and thickness. This increases total surface area for press-in and allows the Professional Technician to utilize a wider range of adaptors. The larger flange improves part strength and knurling on the housing helps to seat the ball joint into the control arm bore. See Figure 1.

Additionally, new anti-corrosion coated hardware in the box allows for a complete and frustration-free install. See Figure 2.

MS30503 also features greaseable self-lubricating sintered bearings for optimized part service life.
